

“We come from different backgrounds and have different cultural heritages, but through stories we found ways to connect...”

Storytelling & Heritage

The Gallery at
SUNY  BROOME

JUNE 8, 2023

4 PM – 7 PM

The Gallery @ SUNY Broome

Students and faculty from Universidad de Celaya, Mexico and SUNY Broome’s Anthropology 288: Storytelling & Heritage course explore storytelling, how it connects us, and how it makes us human.

Partners from Mexico and the United States will welcome you to the opening of this Gallery exhibit at the SUNY Broome Library. Through photos, narratives, video, and material culture, students and faculty tell their stories about their Broome-Celaya collaborations, experiences, and travels.

Funded by 100,000 Strong in the Americas, the Mary Street Jenkins Foundation, SUNY Broome, Universidad de Celaya, the BCC Foundation, the Harold Sunshine Fund for Interdisciplinary Work, and the Romano International Education Endowment Fund.
