

SUNY Broome welcomes Interim Dean of Students

January 7, 2015

SUNY Broome welcomes Scott Schuhert as Interim Dean of Students.

For the Spring semester, Schuhert will be on leave from Binghamton University, where he is the associate director of Housing. He has a master's degree in higher education, several years of student development leadership and experience, and comes highly recommended, according to SUNY Broome President Kevin E. Drumm.

"Scott is also a community college graduate, so he knows our environment from the firsthand perspective of a student," Dr. Drumm said. "We're lucky to have him on board, as he hit the ground running yesterday for opening day 2015."

Schuhert will pioneer the role while the administration develops the full-time, regular position that will be advertised nationally this winter/spring. He will oversee the student development offices currently situated within the Student and Economic Development Division under Vice President Debbie Morello's leadership: Student Activities, Athletics, Residential Life and student discipline. The interim dean of students will also serve as chief compliance coordinator for students pertaining to state and federal compliance regulations and student discipline, although the position will not formally oversee the departments and staff in these areas except for student discipline.
